

Careers Advisers Association Visit

On 23 June 2011, six enthusiastic members of the Careers Advisers Association of NSW paid a visit to the Australian Airline Pilot Academy (AAPA) campus in Wagga Wagga.

The tour was organised so that students at AAPA could gain knowledge and information regarding career prospects and various other matters associated with aviation. The aim was for the careers advisers to provide information to students about their respective schools.

AAPA Deputy Chief Flying Instructor Jeremy Ponsonby addressed the group and answered queries from them, providing a better understanding of the industry. The visitors also had the opportunity to check out the simulator, with which they were duly impressed. An inspection of the facilities and aircraft in the AAPA hangar was next on the itinerary, followed by morning tea.

By the end of the tour, the visitors stated that it was a wonderful facility and that they would certainly be singing the praises of AAPA to their audiences.

All in all, it was a successful visit from the ladies of the Careers Advisers Association NSW, and a big thank you to Jeremy for a job well done. ●

Top to bottom:
AAPA Deputy Chief Flying Instructor Jeremy Ponsonby; Ladies from the Careers Advisers Association NSW; the AAPA campus.

